Teijin to Provide Medical Gowns for Healthcare Professionals

Teijin Frontier Co., Ltd., the Teijin Group's fibers and products converting company, announced today that it will help fight the spread of the COVID-19 virus by supplying medical gowns in Japan, totaling some nine million items between April and June and another ten million items from July onward.

Teijin Frontier is now cooperating with Japanese ministries and other government offices to coordinate its production and supply of surgical and other gowns for healthcare professionals. The effort will involve collaborating with Teijin Frontier's group companies both in Japan and worldwide as well as drawing on its own comprehensive knowhow for supplying everything from specialty materials to final products.

The company is also coordinating with a growing circle of partner companies in Japan to support this initiative, which is expected create increased production demand in the nation's sewing industry.

Teijin Frontier, which has been steadily strengthening its healthcare-related businesses, is committed to developing medical products that will help healthcare professionals fight COVID-19.

The Teijin Group expresses both its sincere condolences to those who have lost family members, friends or colleagues due to COVID-19 and its deep sympathies to those suffering from the disease. Teijin also expresses its sincere gratitude to all those who make their efforts to prevent the spread of infection.
